THE

Publishers' Trade-List Annual

For 1887 (Fifteenth Year).

Large 8vo, about 3000 pages. With Duplex Index.

The Trade-List Annual for 1887 will contain :

1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names.
2. A complete list by author, title, and subject of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY from July, 1886, to June, 1887.
3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1887, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

In view of the New Annual Catalogue, the full reprint of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY full-title record is omitted ; but, in its place, the brief three-column index is replaced by a much more full short-title catalogue of all books recorded between July, 1886, and June, 1887.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we have decided to apply it in the future to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

The price of the book before publication will be ONE DOLLAR AND A HALF net, including the index. Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1.50) but will be charged at $2.00.

✍ Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for 80 cents per copy extra.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. publish this week "The Romance of the Canoness," a life history, the latest work of the celebrated German author, Paul Heyse, and "His Helpmate," a novel, by Frank Barrett, the author of "The Great Hesper."

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish, August 20, the following books, of especial interest to educators: a third edition of "Notes on the Early Training of Children," by Mrs. Frank Malleson; "The English Language: its grammar, history, and literature," by Professor J. M. D. Meiklejohn, of the University of St. Andrews, Scotland; "Meissner's German Grammar," revised and rewritten by Professor Edward S. Joynes, of South Carolina College; "Practical Lessons in the Use of English," for primary schools, by Mary F.

Hyde, of the Normal School, Albany, N. Y.; and "Industrial Instruction," by Robert Seidel, translated by Margaret K. Smith, of the Oswego, N. Y., Normal School.

THE EXCELSIOR PUBLISHING HOUSE has just issued "The Standard Hoyle," a new and reliable authority on all games now played in the United States, and Payne's "Rules of Order," an A. B. C. guide to Parliamentary law and the transaction of public business. Next week it will publish "Josh Hayseed's Adventures in New York," a broadly humorous little pamphlet, illustrated by Mr. Harry Coultaus, the well-known caricaturist on Life.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have just published, simultaneously with their issue in London, two very handsomely illustrated works of travel of general interest, viz., "The Queen's Highway from Ocean to Ocean," by Stuart Cumberland, and "Shores and Alps of Alaska," by H. W. Seton Karr. The first is devoted to description of the new transcontinental railway route, recently opened through the British Dominion, between Victoria, on Vancouver's Island, and Halifax, on the Atlantic Ocean. It is written by a very competent and experienced hand, and opens up some very picturesque portions of the continent. The writer does not confine himself to a description of the railway route, but gives a very complete idea of the whole Dominion of Canada. The second work gives a detailed description of the wild and picturesque coasts, the lofty mountains, and the vast glaciers of our little-known Territory of Alaska, and also an account of Lieut. Schwatka's attempt to ascend Mount St. Elias, in which attempt the author participated.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Book News for September will begin a series of "Studies of Prominent Contemporaneous Novelists," by Mr. Maurice Thompson, whose graceful and discriminating yet caustic pen has won him hosts of admirers.

MR. G. HEDELER, of Leipzig, is going to publish a monthly trade paper styled The Export Journal, in English, French, and German. It is intended to become an international organ for the book-trade. The first number will contain an article by Mr. E. A. Petherick on the book-trade of Australasia, and one by M. Just Chatrousse, editor of the Bibliographie de la France, on the "Cercle de la Librairie."

THE Thackeray Letters to be published in the September number of Scribner's Magazine will include the remainder of the English letters, with some extracts from Miss Kate Perry's recollections of Mr. Thackeray, and also several anecdotes furnished the publishers by Mrs. Brookfield. The October instalment will consist of letters written by Thackeray to the Brookfields from America, and will conclude the publication of this remarkably interesting series.

THE Curio is the title of an illustrated monthly magazine of which the first number will appear on or before September 15. It is to be of full quarto size, and to contain about 50 pages of reading-matter, and will be devoted to such subjects as genealogy, book-plates, rare books and prints, old furniture, and colonial relics. The publisher is R. W. Wright, of 6 Astor Place, and the editor Mr. E. de V. Vermont. An attractive table of contents for the September number has already been arranged for.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbott, C. C. A naturalist's rambles about home. 2d ed., rev. N. Y., Appleton, 1887. c. '84. 2+485 p. cl., $1.50.

Argles, Mrs. Marg. A modern Circe: a novel. N. Y., G. Munro, [1887.] 3-310 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1016.) pap., 20 c.

Bancroft, Hubert Howe. History of the Pacific States of North America, v. 17. California, v. 5, 1846-1848. San Francisco, The History Company, 1886. 15+784 p. O. cl., $4.50; leath., $5.50; hf. cf., hf. rus., or hf. mor., $8; rus., mor., or tree cf., $10.

Opens with the movements of Fremont in California, which at once stirred the natives to armed hostility. A great deal of attention is given to this explorer, and his course is carefully traced so long as he remained on the coast. Instructions from Washington to other government agents there are presented for the purpose of proving that less is due to him for effecting the conquest than has been popularly supposed. The Bear Flag revolt is described, which terminated with the raising of the United States flag by Sloat. The historian seeks to show that the Californians would never have revolted, had United States Consul Larkin's plans not been overthrown. The coming of the Mormon battalion is described, and the sending of the New York volunteers. The brief biographical sketch of all the pioneers that had entered California up to 1848 is completed in this volume.

Bancroft, Hubert Howe. History of the Pacific States of North America, v. 27. British Columbia, 1792-1887. San Francisco, The History Company, 1887. 31+792 p. O. cl., $4.50; leath., $5.50; hf. cf., hf. rus., or hf. mor., $8; rus., mor., or tree cf., $10.

After giving a summary of the earliest voyages, a general view of the northwest coast is presented. The occupation of the country by the fur-traders, and the extension of their trading-posts all through the wilderness is fully treated. The character of the leading traders and the mode of life at the different posts are sketched at length. Considerable space is given to the discovery of gold and the great excitement that followed. The different mining districts are described in detail. The establishment of a colonial government follows the overthrow of the authority of the Hudson's Bay Company. Two chapters treat of the projecting and the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the final chapter gives a general view of the industries, the commerce, and the finance of that territory.

Bancroft, Hubert Howe. History of the Pacific States of North America, v. 31. Popular tribunals, v. 1. San Francisco, The History Company, 1887. 13+749 p. O. cl., $4.50; leath., $5.50; hf. cf., hf. rus., or hf. mor., $8; rus., mor., or tree cf., $10.

This is the first of the two volumes that have grown out of a large amount of material, bearing on vigilance committees. The opening chapters are devoted to a review of similar tribunals in other times and countries, and to a general discussion of the right of a community to take the administration of justice into its own hands. The secrets of the first great vigilance committee of San Francisco are now fully published for the first time, the author having obtained the archives of this committee of 1851, and also of the committee of 1856. The latter part of the volume is devoted to a general view of the action of vigilance committees in the other states and territories west of the Mississippi.

- Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1887. c. 3-322 p. D. cl., $1.20.
- In preparing this edition of Chauvenet's "Geometry," the editor has endeavored to compel the student to think and to reason for himself. On this account the demonstrations of the main propositions, which at first are full and complete, are gradually more and more condensed, until at last they are sometimes reduced to mere hints, by the aid of which the full proof is to be developed, and numerous additional theorems and problems are constantly given as exercises for practice in original work. A syllabus, containing the axioms, the postulates, and the captions of the main theorems and corollaries, has been added to aid students and teachers in reviews and examinations.

- Shillaber, Lydia. Mrs. Shillaber's cook-book: a practical guide for housekeepers; with introduction by Mrs. Partington. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1887.] c. 18+265 p. D. cl., $1.25; Kitchen ed., oilcloth, $1.25.
- "It might seem to a superficial observer that there are cookery books and housekeeping manuals in abundance already before the public. But a practical attempt to apply the most of these to the every-day wants of the average household proves that there is need of a safe guide for the housewife who must do her own work, or teach and direct unskilled help. It is the object of this work to supply this long-felt want. Therefore, we have given the most of our space to plain, practicable rules, suitable for common use. We have given a list of the articles needed, at the head of each receipt, so that it can be seen at a glance whether the ingredients called for are at hand, and what sort of material is required."—Preface.
- Spyri, Johanna. Swiss stories for children and for those who love children; from the German by Lucy Wheelock. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1887.] c. tr. 94 p. D. cl., $1.
- This charming collection of stories "for children and for those who love children" will be eagerly welcomed by all who have already made acquaintance with Madame Spyri's work. There is a purity, a tenderness, an exquisite simplicity in these pictures of peasant life which remind one of Hans Christian Andersen. Nothing can be more pathetic than the story of "Toni," the first in the volume. In fact, there is a touch of pathos in all the author's work, for she sympathizes deeply with the poor people who have so hard a struggle to live, and especially with the children, who have to begin to help almost in their infancy.
- Sturgis, Julian. Thraldom. N. Y., Appleton, 1887. 1+247 p. S. pap., 50 c.
- An English love tale by the author of "An accomplished gentleman," etc. Mesmerism plays a large part in the story, the heroine being under the complete control of her companion, an unscrupulous woman, through this power. She almost succeeds in making her marry her son, but the girl's love for some one else and the son's conscience help frustrate her evil designs.
- Thoughts from Dominican saints for each day in the year. N. Y., Benziger, Bros., 1887. S. cl., 50 c.
- Universal arithmetic papers: five series. St. Louis, I. H. Brown & Co., [1887.] Ea. 25 c., or the 5 ser., $1.
- Consist of five envelopes containing 50 papers of five problems each, with answers to the problems on a separate sheet and a detailed plan for obtaining the best results. The problems are graded, the envelopes being designated as "Elementary," Series A, B, C, and D.
- Verne, Jules. Texar's vengeance; or, north versus south; tr. by Mrs. Laura E. Kendall. In 2 pts. Pt. 1. N. Y., G: Munro, [1887.] c. tr. 198 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1011.) pap., 20 c.
- Ward, T. Humphrey, ed. The reign of Queen Victoria: a survey of fifty years of progress. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1887. 2 v. O. cl., $8.
- Williams, H: Llewellyn. Buffalo Bill (Hon. W: F. Cody); rifle and revolver shot; pony express rider; teamster; guide and scout: a full account of his adventurous life; with the origin of his Wild West show. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1887. 192 p. D. pap., 25 c.
- Wilson, Ja. Grant, and Fiske, J: Appleton's cyclopædia of American biography. In 6 v. V. 2. N. Y., Appleton, 1887. Por. and il. O. cl., subs., $5; lib. style, $6; hf. mor., $7.
- Wolle, Rev. Francis. Desmids of the United States and list of American pediatrums; with 1100 il. on 53 colored pl. Bost., Bradlee Whidden, 1887. 168 p. 53 pl. O. cl., $5.
- Wolle, Rev. Francis. Fresh-water algæ of the United States, complementary to "Desmids of the United States." Bost., Bradlee Whidden, 1887. 2 v. V. 1, text, 364 p.; v. 2, 157 pl. and reference pages to each plate. O. cl., $10.
- Wood, Mrs. H: Lady Adelaide's oath; or, the castle's heir. N. Y., G: Munro, [1887.] 341 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed. no. 1001.) pap., 20 c.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 20, 1887.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries" thankfully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE ART OF BOOKBUYING.

David Gamut in the N. Y. Times, July 12.

THEY do these things better in Paris. Quérard, Brunet, Barbier, Peignot, Lacroix, Nodier, Paris, Renouard, Didot, Uzanne, Beraldi, are bibliographers who have taught booksellers to be bibliopoles. Charles of Orleans, Gui Patin, Bossuet, Mazarin, Colbert, La Valliere, Double, Baron Pichon, are names of French collectors who had the erudition and correct taste needful to bibliographers. In Paris there are bibliopoles and bibliophiles; in New York booksellers and book-collectors. Your bookseller is your enemy on the principle that business is the money of others. He makes your education with Morgand's catalogue for a catechism; believes he is a missionary; says of a great bookbuyer, "my pupil."

Conquet is a bookseller at whose store one may meet every afternoon, between four and five, Ludovic Halévy, Paul Bourget, André Theuriet, Giacomelli, Henriot, Robida, artists, men of letters, wealthy bibliophiles. They go there instead of going to Tortoni's at the absinthe hour. And that is why Conquet knows books so well; that is, books that are illustrated, books of the nineteenth century, because that is the fancy of the Conquet coterie.

To Rouquette's Poulet-Malassis came every day for the good of his work on book plates, and Henry Cohen for the good of his famous manual. They met there James de Rothschild, Quentin Bachart, Brivois, Parran, another coterie of artists, men of letters, and bibliophiles.

It was Morgand who taught Fontaine, when he was a clerk of the latter, to make a high-priced catalogue; Fatout, a clerk of Caen, was a great bookfinder on the quays. Morgand and Fatout went into partnership. Conquet, Rouquette, Fontaine, Morgand (Fatout is dead), are the bibliopoles of Paris. There are booksellers there without number. The Hotel Drouot, the caravansary where everything that is sold in Paris at auction, from houses to chickens, is sold, has a "Commissaire Priseur," an officer of the Government, who has a rostrum and an ivory mallet with an ebony handle to knock down stock like the President of the Stock Exchange. The Hotel Drouot has an "expert" who appraises the stock, and a crier who shouts the bids. An important book sale at the Hotel Drouot is like a first performance at the Français. The "Commissaire Priseur" has donned his best clothes. Seats at the round table, where the books circulate one by one for examination, have been reserved. There is in the room the solemnity of a funeral ceremony at the Madeleine. The book-buyer does not scratch his nose or look unutterable things at the crier, as he would do here for a bid. He tells his price frankly, Rouquette with a Gascon accent; Morgand, his intimate enemy at book sales, with a voice that comes from his boots. When Rouquette meets Morgand then comes the tug of war. They do not trouble themselves with bidding at the beginning, but bid last, and when they have ceased the war ends for lack of fighters. They are wont to taunt each other with the affirmation that "there is a grease spot on page 133, seventh line."

In Paris they will not sell you a book for 500f. and let it go afterward at your own auction sale for $100. If they have sold you a "peachblow vase" sort of a book their dignity as well as their interest will make them redeem it at the price they have made you pay, or not much less. It is the ambition of every bookseller not to become wealthy in ten or twenty years, but to become a bibliopole; perhaps because in that realm of equality everybody's desire is to be of the privileged few, perhaps because honors are prized more than riches there. It is silly to run mad after a bit of red ribbon for the lapel of one's coat, but it is not for the bibliopole who runs mad after bookbinding to say so. Moreover, the man that would rather have a red ribbon than a fortune, if a bookseller, is the man for a bibliophile. Valuable books are not to be sold like boots; there must be some show of feeling about it.

In New York they tell tales of a bookseller who buys books at auction here in the spring, takes them with him to Paris in a trunk in the summer, ships them back to his store in the fall in cases that are opened in the presence of flabbergasted book men. He shows a Paris invoice for them. Sometimes it is the library of a Marquis, sometimes the collection of a cousin to a descendant of a governess of a Queen's children. This trick is said to pay well; doubtless it does, judging by librettos that fetch from $15 to $30 for having been in the Tuileries Library ("as witness the binding with its large, gilded initial N."), but these things are manufactured by wholesale in the Boulevard Saint-Michel.

Perhaps it would be more moral for a bookseller not to scratch the lettered title of a print that it may pass for a proof, or not to stamp the arms of Mme. de Pompadour on a book that never was in her library, or not to shout, "Is it complete?" at an auction sale when a book is offered, for the purpose of deprecating its value, whether he sold it originally or not, but especially if he sold it. At a recent auction sale an ancient bookseller was caught scratching with his nail a morocco binding by Petit and a binding with the arms of Louis Philippe; another passing a wet finger on an etching by Meissonier. At a sale of incunabula a bookseller gave a bid of $3 on a German Psalter that he sold to the collector for $75. It may be business, but it is not right. . . . There never was an auction sale in New York where the prices were too low. A valuable book finds its level, like water; it fetches the price that it is worth, sometimes more, rarely less; but the value of a book is not the price that can be got for it at private sale. If you should ask the trained collector why booksellers say that the prices at a certain auction sale were too low, he would refer you to the booksellers' catalogues, wherein the same books are dearer. If you should ask how the fiction has been kept up for a decade, he would turn to his scrap-book, filled with clippings from the "trade" papers that say it is too late for an auction sale in June, too early in September, too much in the season in December, that the catalogue is not explicit enough, that the catalogue is too explicit, that the sale was not advertised, that it was over-advertised. The truth is, that the dealers in books for bibliophiles, after they have educated their customers, and these have had their "experience" sale, lose them. The trained collector, even if he has the purse of Fortunatus, does not regard his passion for books as a passion to be gratified by force of money. If he did, Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, who is passionately fond of books, would have the best library in America; James de Rothschild, who knew books as well as his friends Rouquette, Morgand, and Fontaine, would have left at his death the best library in France behind him. The man who pays more for a book than it is worth is not a bibliophile.

Some New Yorkers may remember an old man who looked as if he might have come out of the cobwebs of antiquity, who carried books in his arms and the deep pockets of his long coat, in every office building where there is a notice to peddlers that they shall not be admitted. He did not know how to read, but he knew every rare and valuable book that he peddled, its literary as well as its bibliographical value; if you questioned him, you found that he was not saying his lessons. He sold books at their value. Frenzeny's title-page of the "Bookmart" is his portrait.

Whenever a book is knocked down to G. B. at an auction sale the price of it is 10 cents. G. B. is a Canadian, an amiable gentleman, who has for 10 years attended every auction sale in this city and bought the greater number of French books sold here that have been sold for 10 cents. His name is Georges Benoit. He has books that fill every room of his large house in East Twenty-first Street, and he has read them. They shall never be worth more than 10 cents, but there are many books worth only 10 cents better than their elders in the domain of bibliography.

To learn the art of bookbuying ought not to cost so much as it does. When there were few public libraries it was well to have a large collection of books. Now the bibliophile's bookcase is a jewel box, not a collection of memorial tablets. The collector who shall have a hundred books worthy of the twentieth century bibliophile's library will have an ideal library. He should not send his orders to booksellers to form it, but learn his alphabet of a collector in the catalogues of book auction sales and wait for the sales that are to come. Mr. C. Jolly Bavoillot has a complete collection of the first editions uncut, with the original paper covers, of the romantic school of literature in France. He has it in a corner of his little library-room in Stuyvesant Square. There is not a collection of "Romantiques" to compare with it in France. He has every first edition of Victor Hugo, with an autograph in each book relating to the book or written at the time of its publication. The collection was not made by force of money, but by force of patience, an indispensable quality for a book-collector. He waited 10 years for a copy of the Conservateur Littéraire, a newspaper edited by Hugo when Hugo was a boy, an ardent Royalist, and a pious Catholic. It appeared often in these years in special catalogues of booksellers, it was well known that he wanted it, its price was fabulous, but he knew that it was in the collection of a man aged 80, and when the man died he bought it at his sale at its value. Wherefore it should be a dogma with bibliophiles that there are no scarce books. There are booksellers who wantonly or by ignorance charge too much for their wares, bibliographers who copy each other without investigation, book-collectors who have been educated by booksellers and have not yet had their "experience" sale. It may seem paradoxical to say that great private collections are not only for the wealthy, but it is true, and the experience of every one who will not bury his talent in a napkin.

A CIRCULATING LIBRARY FOR YOUTH.

ON the second floor of an old wooden building on Park Row, says the New York Evening Sun, is a room which contains 100,000 paper-covered books and pamphlets. The proprietor of the place began business in this city nine years ago with a capital of $7 and 100 books, and he has built up the trade in second-hand books of fiction until it has reached its present generous proportions. The stock is composed mainly of uncopied editions of popular authors. Very few new books are handled. When the books and pamphlets come from the publishers' hands they cost from 10 to 20 cents. When a boy who has bought "Snake-Eyed Bob, the Bully of the Woods," for 10 cents has finished reading the book, and kept it in a fair state of preservation, he can take it to the circulating library and sell it for half what he paid for it. By this process the dealer's stock is constantly replenished. These second-hand books are carefully gone over, and all torn pages are patched. The books are then resold at a slight advance on the price the dealer has paid.

The business is at its best in the summer months, because then the theatres are closed, and the boys look for sensational literature to supply a morbid taste for novelty. Among French authors Fortuné Du Boisgobey, who writes detective stories, such as "The Vitriol Throwers," is in the largest demand. His books are ground out at the rate of one every month. The bookseller said that his customers were so anxious to see the current number of Du Boisgobey's works, that they could scarcely restrain their impatience. Jules Verne is very largely read, as are also Ouida and Clark Russell. Although Bret Harte's and Mark Twain's books are in demand, they cannot be found on the shelves of the circulating library, for they are protected by copyright. Lever is the most popular of Irish writers.

The percentage of profit in the business is much larger than that of the regular book-trade. The books are bought chiefly by boys and seamen. The reading of sensational novels is not as harmful as is generally supposed, in the opinion of the dealer. He thinks that it is much better for the boys to read novels than to travel with the gangs. The tendency of sensational novel-reading among the boys, the dealer said, was to lead them to the perusal of a more healthful class of fiction.

OBITUARY.

JEAN VICTOR DURUY.

JEAN VICTOR DURUY, the celebrated French historian and leader in education, is dead in his 77th year. He was a native of Paris and commenced his classical studies in 1823 at the College Rollin, then known as the College Sainte Barbe. In 1830 he was admitted into the Normal School, and three years later was appointed to the class in history at the College of Rheims. He left Rheims in a few months to take a similar position in the College of Henry IV. at Paris, afterward called the College Napoleon. About this time he published several elementary historical volumes. In 1853 M. Duruy took the degree of Doctor "des lettres," and subsequently became Inspector of the Academy of Paris, Master of the Conferences at the Normal School, and Professor of History at the Polytechnic School. By decree of the Emperor, June 23, 1863, he was appointed Minister of Public Instruction. He made some decided changes and reforms in his department, and stirred up a bitter opposition, especially among the Catholics, who censured him for his "Synopsis of Contemporary History" for the use of the Lyceum. In 1869 M. Duruy resigned his seat in the Ministry and was appointed a Senator, a post which he held until the revolution of Sept. 4, 1870. M. Duruy's principal historical works are his "History of Ancient Greece" (which was "crowned" by the French Academy), 1852; "Modern History," 1863; "Popular History of France," 1863; a "Popular Contemporaneous History," 1864; and "General Introduction to the History of France," 1865. He wrote also of the Roman republic and empire. M. Duruy was decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor in 1845; made an officer in that order Aug. 12, 1863; a commander Aug. 13, 1864, and a Grand Officer Aug. 4, 1867. He had been an officer of the Turkish Order of Medjidie since 1857.—Boston Journal.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ANDOVER, MASS.—Mr. W. F. Draper, Andover, Mass., has sold his retail book business to Mr. John N. Cole, and will hereafter confine his attention to his own publications.

CINCINNATI, O.—Mr. John W. Innes sold on July 14, 1887, his interest in the firm of Samuel C. Cox & Co. to Mr. Samuel C. Cox. The business will be conducted under the same firm-name.

NEW YORK CITY.—E. Steiger & Co. have purchased the German book business of L. W. Schmidt, 7 Barclay Street, one of the oldest concerns in this line in New York. After more than 40 years' working in the German book-trade, Mr. Schmidt retires from business on account of ill health.

PITTSBURG, PENN.—James B. Dodge, one of the oldest booksellers and stationers in the city, confessed judgment Aug. 17 for $23,700, and his store was closed by the sheriff.

WELLSVILLE, N. Y.—Brown & Madison, booksellers and stationers, it is reported, have made an assignment.

THE booksellers of Paris, in the middle of the fourteenth century, were commanded to keep books for hire, and Chevalier, the famous bibliographer, found a list of the books so circulated, and the price of reading each. The hire of a Bible was ten sous.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE husband of Miss Sally Pratt McLean, author of "Cape Cod Folks," is Mr. T. L. Green, a Chihuahua miner.

THE Duke of Northumberland is about to issue, for private circulation only, the "Annals of the House of Percy from the Conquest to the Opening of the Nineteenth Century," by Mr. E. Barrington de Fonblanque.

MR. R. L. STEVENSON, before sailing for America, where he intends to live on a Colorado ranch for some years, will issue a reprint of "Virginibus Puerisque" and a volume called "Memories and Portraits," which is largely composed of autobiographical studies and sketches.

FRANK VINCENT, the author of "The Land of the White Elephant," who has just returned from a tour of 55,000 miles in South America, has settled in New York, and will begin at once an account of his travels. It will be illustrated from photographs gathered by him in South America, and some maps, charts, and plans of countries and cities visited by him.

MR. J. GLEESON WHITE is preparing for publication in Mr. Walter Scott's series of Canterbury Poets, an anthology of the poems written in our language in the various romance forms, the rondeau and the ballade and their fellows, which have been abundant in the ten years since Mr. Austin Dobson introduced them to us. Mr. White's volume will appear in November. It will contain a full selection from the younger American poets.

"MR. MATTHEW ARNOLD is now engaged on his autobiographical reminiscences," says London Truth, "which, I hear, will include many new and interesting facts concerning his distinguished father. There was nothing which Lord Melbourne regretted more after his fall from power than his having omitted to make Dr. Arnold a Bishop. The Doctor was nearly getting Salisbury in 1837, but a shuffling colleague frightened the Prime Minister, by assuring him that Archbishop Howley would refuse to consecrate Arnold, and that a contest with 'the Church' would inevitably prove fatal to the Whig Government. Dr. Arnold had excited the rabid fury of the Tories and High Churchmen by a scathing article in the Edinburgh Review, which was entitled 'Oxford Malignants.'"

"I CAN hardly tell," says Mr. Hubert Howe Bancroft in The San Francisco Examiner, "how I came to devote my life to history rather than anything else. Looking back it seems to have been accidental. The motive was neither a longing for wealth nor a thirst after fame, while the development was easy, gradual, and natural. My history is nearly finished now, and about half of the force which has been continuously employed at my library for nearly twenty-five years has been retired, yet there are still before me several years of historical labor. A temporary interruption was occasioned by the burning of the bookstore and the attention to business affairs that disaster invoked. So soon as the establishment is entirely rehabilitated I will again devote myself in a great measure to our history, which embraces seven volumes on California, six on Mexico, three on Central America, two on Oregon, two on the Northwest Coast, and one each upon the other Pacific Coast States."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A NEW novel by Miss Florence Warden, entitled "Scheherezade: a London night's entertainment," will be published simultaneously in New York and London in September. The English edition will be issued by Ward & Downey.

THE LONGMANS, London, have just published another work by John P. Prendergast, the author of "The Cromwellian Settlement," on "Ireland from the Restoration to the Revolution," an interesting period of Irish history in relation to the Act of Settlement and its consequences.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT announce for publication next month "Beecher as a Humorist," a compilation from the published works of Henry Ward Beecher, by Eleanor Kirk, the editor of the "Beecher Book of Days." The little book promises to be full of sunshine and laugh-provoking extracts.

THE story of Verdi's life and of the production of his recent opera, "Othello," at Milan will be told by Miss Blanche Roosevelt in a new work, "Verdi, Milan, and 'Othello,'" which Ward & Downey, London, have ready for publication. The book is dedicated to Mr. Wilkie Collins, and will contain several portraits and other illustrations.

A NEW volume of poetry by Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson, whose "Child's Garden of Verses" is his only other essay in this branch of literature, will be published immediately by Charles Scribner's Sons, simultaneous with its appearance in England. The title of the book is "Underwoods," and its contents reveal the author's remarkable versatility, and indicate that the volume will attain the same popularity and arouse the same wide interest that his romances have.

REV. W. W. NEWTON's new book, "The Vine Out of Egypt," upon which he has been working for the past five years, will be issued early in September, by Thomas Whittaker. The volume is a history of the growth and development of the Episcopal Church in America, with especial reference to the church life of the future. The author gives a history of the movement towards federated unity which resulted in the formation of the congress of churches. The last chapter is an appeal to the church not to risk its leadership by the perilous policy of a change of name. The volume will undoubtedly create quite an interest among the thinkers of the day, and its advent is awaited with eagerness.

J. W. BOUTON, N. Y., has made arrangements for this country for the publication of a new bibliography of theatrical literature by Robert W. Lowe—"A Bibliographical Account of English Theatrical Literature from the Earliest Times to the Present Day." The work is intended to supply in some measure the want which has been felt by all writers on theatrical subjects, as well as by all collectors of theatrical books. It consists of about 2000 titles, the great majority of which are taken directly from the works described. These will be arranged alphabetically, with exhaustive cross-references. Notes regarding each actor and actress will be given, and also an account of the occurrences to which particular works refer, special attention being paid to the less known and more curious pamphlets.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue.
